Private commissions

If you are clear about what you want your piece to look like, all I need is a description of your idea to get started. Based on your description, I will make a series of small studies until you are satisfied with the results. I will then begin work on the final version of the piece.

If you aren't sure what you are after, then you may want to look through the website for some pieces that you like and we can start there.

In cases where we know the final price of the piece to be made I require a 25% deposit to start the work on the smaller studies, another 25% when the full-size clay model is completed and ready to mold. The balance is due when the work is completed and ready to be shipped.

If we aren't sure what we are going to make or what the final cost is going to be, I will charge a flat rate per model until we know where we are going with the piece. These charges will be non-refundable, but will apply to the final price of the piece.
